A message from the executive director of the GPRC

NORMAN LEACH

Welcome to another exciting year with the GPRC! As the executive director, it's my absolute pleasure to extend my gratitude to each of you for being an essential part of our growing and vibrant chamber. Your continued support, enthusiasm, and commitment are what make this organization the dynamic and thriving business community it is today.

First and foremost, thank you. Whether you've been with us for years or are just joining the chamber family, your contributions are invaluable. Every connection made, every event attended, and every bit of advice shared strengthens our chamber and helps build the success of the entire Parkland region. You're not just members; you're the lifeblood of this organization, and we are so proud to have you with us on this journey.

This past year has been one of growth and opportunity. Through your participation, we've been able to host a range of successful events, from workshops that help small businesses thrive to large-scale networking events that foster collaboration across industries. Your engagement in these events creates the very fabric of what we aim to achieve—building relationships that inspire growth, development, and shared success.

Our chamber is about more than just business; it's about creating a supportive network of like-minded individuals who are passionate about seeing this region prosper. We've seen firsthand the power of collaboration and the positive ripple effect it has on the local economy. Each time we come together—whether through a community project, advocacy efforts, or simply sharing resources—we're laying the foundation for a stronger, more resilient business landscape.

As we look to the future, we are filled with excitement and optimism. The year ahead promises new opportunities, innovative programs, and initiatives aimed at driving business forward in ways that will benefit us all. We're committed to offering even more valuable resources, enhanced networking opportunities, and tools that will help you navigate the ever-changing business environment. We'll continue to be your advocates, voicing the needs of our local business community to government officials and ensuring that our region remains a great place to do business.

But none of this would be possible without your support. Your involvement—whether it's attending events, participating in committees, or simply engaging with other members—makes all the difference. You are what makes this chamber special, and together, we'll continue to grow, evolve, and make the Parkland region a beacon of business success.

In closing, I want to express my deepest gratitude once again. It's an honour to serve as your executive director and to be part of such a vibrant and passionate group of professionals. Let's keep building on our achievements and working together to create a prosperous future for all. I look forward to seeing what we can accomplish in the coming year and am excited for all that's to come.

Here's to another year of growth, opportunity, and success!

WHAT IS A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE? ADDRESSING COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS

A chamber of commerce is a vital part of any community's business ecosystem, providing resources, advocacy, and opportunities for businesses to grow and succeed. While many are familiar with the name, there are often misconceptions about what exactly a chamber of commerce does and how it benefits both members and non-members.

Whether you're a seasoned business owner or just starting, understanding the role of a chamber can help you make the most of what it has to offer.

WHAT IS A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE?

At its core, a chamber of commerce is a local or regional organization that supports and promotes businesses within a particular area. The primary mission is to create a healthy business environment, foster economic growth, and advocate for policies that benefit the business community.

Chambers of commerce serve a wide variety of industries, ranging from small local shops to large corporations. They offer networking opportunities, educational programs, marketing tools, and advocacy at the local, state, and even federal levels. But beyond these services, chambers aim to bring business leaders together to build strong communities.

Small businesses often gain the most from chamber membership because they receive valuable exposure, access to a broad network, and a chance to collaborate with other local business owners.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS ABOUT CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE

While chambers offer significant value to businesses, many people hold misconceptions that may cause them to hesitate before joining. Let's address some of these myths and provide clarity.

Misconception 1:

"A chamber of commerce is just for big businesses"

Reality: Chambers of commerce are designed to serve businesses of all sizes, from large corporations to solo entrepreneurs. In fact, the majority of chamber members tend to be small and medium-sized businesses. Small businesses often gain the most from chamber membership because they receive valuable exposure, access to a broad network, and a chance to collaborate with other local business owners. Whether you own a corner coffee shop or a larger enterprise, the chamber is here to help you grow and connect.

Misconception 2:

"The chamber doesn't do much for its members"

Reality: The benefits of a chamber of commerce often go beyond what's immediately visible. While events like networking mixers and business expos are more publicized, chambers are constantly working behind the scenes to advocate for favourable business policies, provide essential resources, and build partnerships that help their members thrive. Additionally, many chambers offer marketing support, exclusive referrals, and a platform to showcase your business to a larger audience. Active participation is key—businesses that engage with their chamber's offerings often see a direct return on their investment.

Misconception 3:

"Chamber membership is expensive"

Reality: Membership fees for chambers of commerce vary, but they are typically structured to accommodate businesses of different sizes and budgets. Most chambers offer tiered membership options, so small businesses and start-ups can choose a level that fits their needs. When viewed as an investment, the value far outweighs the cost. Membership provides businesses with opportunities to expand their reach, access resources, and take advantage of professional development programs that would otherwise be costly on their own. Additionally, many chambers offer discounts on services like insurance or marketing tools, offsetting the membership cost.

Misconception 4:
“Chambers of commerce are outdated”

Reality: While the concept of a chamber of commerce has been around for centuries, modern chambers have evolved significantly to keep up with the changing business landscape. Today, chambers leverage technology to offer virtual events, webinars, and digital marketing opportunities. They also serve as a hub for business innovation, offering support for entrepreneurs, digital marketing resources, and programs focused on helping businesses adapt to current trends. Far from outdated, chambers are increasingly essential in a fast-changing economy, offering a blend of traditional support and modern tools to help businesses succeed.

WHY JOIN A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE?

Chamber membership offers numerous benefits for businesses of all sizes, industries, and stages. Some key advantages include:

An advertisement for Stony Plain. It features three polaroid-style photos: one of two men playing acoustic guitars, one of a young girl smiling, and one of a group of people outdoors with a large orange lion dance costume. The text reads: "Stony Plain WHERE FAMILY FUN NEVER ENDS! From enchanting outdoor adventures to captivating cultural experiences, there's something for everyone in the family to enjoy! Start making memories that will last a lifetime! Book your trip today." There is a logo for "EXPLORE" at the bottom right and the website "ExploreStonyPlain.com" is mentioned in the first photo's caption.

An advertisement for Sandy View Farms. The background is a wooden surface with various meats and a cutting board. The logo features a barn icon with the text "SANDYVIEW FARMS". Below the logo, the text reads: "Your Local Butcher, Deli & Caterer". Contact information includes: "155 South Avenue, Spruce Grove, AB, p. 780-962-0067, e. sandyviewfarms@telus.net". Retail hours are listed: "Retail Hours: Mon – Fri 8:00 am – 6:00 pm, Sat – 8:00 am – 5:00 pm, Sun – 9:00 am – 3:00 pm". At the bottom, it says: "They don't make it like they used to...but we do!"

- Networking and relationship building: Chambers provide regular opportunities for members to connect with potential clients, partners, and mentors. Whether through networking events, luncheons, or workshops, the chamber helps you build lasting professional relationships.
- Business advocacy: Chambers represent the interests of their members at the local, state, and even national levels. They work to ensure that laws and regulations are favourable to businesses and fight for policies that promote economic growth.
- Visibility and credibility: Membership in a chamber gives businesses a mark of credibility. Consumers often view chamber members as trustworthy and community-focused. Additionally, many chambers provide online directories, business spotlights, and sponsorship opportunities, increasing visibility.

- Access to resources and education: Chambers offer a wealth of educational resources, from workshops on marketing strategies to seminars on tax laws. Members have access to tools that can help them stay informed and competitive.

A chamber of commerce is much more than a networking group; it is a crucial advocate and support system for local businesses. By dispelling common misconceptions, it becomes clear that chambers offer tangible benefits to businesses of all sizes, industries, and budgets. Whether you're looking to grow your network, gain credibility, or have a voice in local economic policy, the chamber of commerce is here to support your success.

If you're not yet a member, consider joining your local chamber today. The benefits can make a lasting impact on your business and the broader community!

THE MARKETING BENEFITS OF BEING A MEMBER

By Tracy Zuk

As a chamber member, you can take advantage of E-blasts to the chamber's mailing list.

Joining a chamber of commerce offers businesses a plethora of marketing benefits, providing them with invaluable exposure and networking opportunities. There are various ways that chamber membership can enhance your business visibility and growth, including on website directory listings, website banners, digital sign advertising, social media posts, E-blasts, and access to a comprehensive chamber profile.

WEBSITE DIRECTORY LISTINGS

One of the most immediate benefits of chamber membership is being listed in the chamber's online directory. This directory is often the first stop for local residents and businesses seeking services. Having your business listed here increases your visibility to potential customers who prefer to support chamber members. A detailed directory listing with your business information, contact details, and a link to your website can drive traffic and generate leads, establishing your business as a trusted local provider.

WEBSITE BANNER ADS

Chamber members often have the opportunity to place banner ads on the chamber's website. These banner ads can be strategically placed on high-traffic pages, ensuring that your business gets seen by a broader audience. Whether it's on the homepage, event pages, or member directories, a well-designed banner ad can capture attention and convey your message effectively. This form of advertising is particularly beneficial because it targets visitors who are already engaged with the local business community.

DIGITAL SIGN ADVERTISING

Chamber members can advertise on digital signs located in strategic areas, such as Stony Plain and Wabamum. These signs are seen by over 15,000 vehicles daily, offering extensive reach and exposure. Digital signs are an excellent medium for promoting special offers, events, or new products. They provide a dynamic way to attract attention from commuters and local residents, ensuring your message reaches a wide audience. The high visibility and frequent exposure can significantly boost brand recognition and drive foot traffic to your business.

SOCIAL MEDIA POSTS

The chamber's social media platforms provide another powerful avenue for marketing. As a member, your business can benefit from posts and shout-outs on these channels, which are followed by a broad and engaged audience. Social media posts can highlight your business' achievements, promotions, or events, leveraging the chamber's credibility and reach. Engaging content shared by the chamber can lead to increased visibility, more followers, and higher engagement rates on your own social media pages.

E-BLASTS

Email marketing remains one of the most effective tools for reaching potential customers. As a chamber member, you can take advantage of E-blasts to the chamber's mailing list. These E-blasts can announce special promotions, upcoming events, or important business updates. The chamber's endorsement through these communications adds credibility to your message and ensures it reaches a targeted, interested audience. This can lead to higher open rates and more effective marketing campaigns.

credibility and trust with potential clients. It's your chance to showcase what makes your business unique and why people should choose you.

ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS OF A PROFILE

At the very least, your profile should include the following information:

1. Company name: Clearly state the full, official name of your business.
2. Main phone number: Ensure that people can reach you easily.
3. Website address: Drive traffic to your website, where visitors can learn more about your products and services.
4. Company logo: A logo adds a professional touch and helps with brand recognition.
5. Company description: A brief, clear description that highlights what your business offers and what makes it special.

These details are the foundation of your profile and are crucial for being seen by potential customers. Additionally, your profile is not set in stone; you can add or update information at any time to reflect new services, changes in contact details, or even special promotions. This flexibility allows you to keep your profile relevant and fresh as your business evolves.

INCREASED VISIBILITY FOR YOUR BUSINESS

A complete profile significantly increases your chances of being found in searches, both within the chamber's website and via search engines like Google. Search engines rely on relevant information to present search results, and the more details you provide, the more likely your business will rank higher when people are looking for what you offer.

Moreover, the information you provide in your online profile is also used in the printed membership directory. This directory is another crucial tool that consumers and businesses use to find trusted local services. By ensuring your profile is complete, you're also maximizing your visibility in both digital and print formats, reaching a broader audience.

HOW TO GET THE MOST OUT OF YOUR MEMBERSHIP

Your member profile is more than just a listing—it's a gateway to connecting with the local community. By taking the time to fill out your profile with comprehensive and up-to-date information, you're setting your business up for success. Here's how you can ensure your profile is working for you:

- Add images and videos: If possible, include photos of your work, team, or premises, as well as any promotional videos. Visual content can make your profile more engaging and memorable.
- Include key services: Be specific about the products or services you offer to help potential clients understand what you do and why you're the best choice.
- Keep your profile updated: As your business grows or your offerings change, regularly update your profile to reflect these changes.

Completing your member profile on the GPRC's online directory is one of the simplest and most effective ways to increase your business' visibility. With thousands of visitors to the website every month, your profile is often the first step toward new business opportunities.

Don't miss out—take full advantage of this platform by ensuring your profile is detailed, accurate, and up to date. It's the foundation for getting the most out of your chamber membership and growing your business within the community.

A tradition of service

Your Chamber

By Paul Adair

GPRC

The sun's rays along the edge of the logo represent the setting of the western sun, the scenic and agricultural beauty of the region is represented by the wheat, and the strength of the industrial sector is depicted with the cog.

In 2019, the business communities of Stony Plain, Spruce Grove, and Wabamun amalgamated their chambers to form a new organization, the GPRC. And while the GPRC may be relatively new, it carries on the legacy of the three older chambers, which faithfully served their respective business communities for many years.

The Tri-Region area is a large, diverse geographical area with diverse industries of agriculture, industrial development, retail, and energy, and you only have to look as far as the GPRC logo to see what the chamber represents. The sun's rays along the edge of the logo represent the setting of the western sun, the scenic and agricultural beauty of the region is represented by the wheat, and the strength of the industrial sector is depicted with the cog.

"Our communities have changed so much over the years, and we are currently one of the fastest growing regions in the province," says Norman Leach, GPRC executive director. "In fact, if you didn't have a sign on the road telling you that you were leaving Spruce Grove and entering Stony Plain, you wouldn't know it. That is why the three chambers made the decision in 2019 to work together as one, rather than competing against each other."

And even though the Tri-Region communities have a relatively small population base of approximately 60,000 people, the GPRC is surprisingly well-represented with more than 700 members that are predominantly small businesses (82 per cent of GPRC members have less than 25 employees). The chamber serves its members with a staff of two full-time employees and four part-time contract employees.

"When we go out and meet with our members, we see that they are doing more with less and working hard to earn their profits," says Leach. "We have a responsibility to do the same if our goal is to help them to be as profitable as possible. That means we have to keep our own costs under control and be efficient with our staffing to serve them better."

THE VALUE OF THE GPRC

The purpose of the GPRC is to leverage the strengths of the region and espouse the benefits of doing business in the community. The chamber does this by elevating local businesses through professional development, community engagement, promotion, and membership benefits – of which there are many.

First and foremost, the main benefit is building relationships with other members. Networking through the chamber helps members to create invaluable contacts within the local business community and opens doors to potential clients and partners that contribute to business growth. Being part of the GPRC also enhances a member's visibility and demonstrates that they are a key player in the local business community.

Members have easy access to the chamber's various marketing channels to promote products or services, allowing them to amplify their reach to a broader audience. For example, the chamber's electronic sign receives 15,000 views every day and its website has more than 5,000 unique views every month, almost all of which are looking for goods and services. The GPRC has several affordable advertising options, including sponsorship opportunities at chamber events and in chamber publications, such as in this magazine. Membership also makes the most of a marketing budget by tapping into targeted promotional avenues.

"I believe we are the only chamber in the province doing this, but when you buy a membership from us, you will receive an equal value of advertising on our website," says Leach. "So, if you get a $300 membership, you get $300 worth of advertising, which – depending how you look at it – means you either get a free membership or advertising.”

Another important function of the chamber is to advocate for its members. In this role, the GPRC helps to influence not only local policies, but also provincial and federal regulations that have an impact on its members’ businesses.

“We do what businesses can’t do on their own,” says Leach. “Everybody thinks all we need are lower taxes, but finding success isn’t only about lowering taxes. It’s really about all the rules and regulations for things that may seem small – like road allowances and obtaining building permits – but can cause big headaches for our members. By acting as the voice for our members, we free them up to focus on their businesses and on whatever it is they do best.”

Not only working for its members, however, GPRC is also a tremendous benefit to the communities it serves.

“Our job is to make businesses stronger so that they can support their community,” says Leach.

“When our businesses are strong, they’re hiring people, there’s jobs, and kids are more inclined to stay in the community longer and not look for potential opportunities in Edmonton. So, the work we do ultimately has a positive effect on the entire Tri-Region area.”

LOOKING AHEAD

As a relatively new organization, the GPRC aims to continue reaching out as a region and growing stronger by bringing more communities and businesses into the fold. Doing so will not be easy but, with patience and respect, it is a goal that is attainable. In the meantime, the GPRC is always looking for opportunities to partner with other chambers in the province on issues and projects affecting their members.

“It used to be that the local chamber was thought of as an ‘old boys club’ and exclusive, but the GPRC of today is definitely not your grandfather’s chamber,” says Leach. “We are a chamber that has a combined history of more than a century – if not more – but we are also an organization that recognizes that we need to evolve to succeed for our members. We can’t just sit back and wait; we have to keep our eye on the future and move forward, and that is exactly what we will continue working towards.”

Connecting community

By Shayna Wiwierski

The GPRC has become a cornerstone for business networking and community engagement in the Parkland region. Among the many events it hosts, five stand out for their significant impact and broad participation.

These "big five" events include the State of the Region, the Chamber Tri-Expo, the Annual Golf Tournament, the Business Awards of Distinction, and the Chamber Christmas Party. Each event offers unique opportunities for businesses and community members to connect, celebrate, and collaborate.

STATE OF THE REGION

Kicking off the year, the State of the Region is a flagship event that typically draws 200 to 250 attendees. Held annually in March, it provides a platform for the three mayors of the region—Stony Plain Mayor William Choy, Spruce Grove Mayor Jeff Acker, and Parkland County Mayor Allan Gamble—to address the community.

"[The mayors] have a chance to address the attendees and talk about what has happened in the previous years and what they have to look forward to in the coming year," says Gayle Head, event manager for the GPRC.

This event fosters transparency and strengthens the relationship between the local government and the business community. This past year's State of the Region, which took place on March 15 and hosted at the Stony Plain Heritage Park Hall, was a success, receiving positive feedback from attendees who appreciated the informative and engaging format.

CHAMBER TRI-CITY EXPO

Scheduled for May of 2025, the Tri-City Expo is set to be a dynamic trade show featuring around 75 booths. This event will be an exciting opportunity for local businesses to showcase their products and services.

The expo will be hosted at the Tri-Leisure Centre in Spruce Grove, providing ample space for a diverse array of exhibitors. In addition to business booths, the expo will also include tables for non-profit organizations. There is potential for incorporating a job fair, offering even more value to both exhibitors and attendees. This event is a key platform for businesses to engage with the community and explore new opportunities.

ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT

On August 22, 2024, the GPRC hosted its much-anticipated Annual Golf Tournament at the Cougar Creek Golf Resort in Wabamun. This event is a hallmark of camaraderie and networking, where business professionals come together for a day of golf, relaxation, and socializing.

With a capacity of 144, the tournament promises to be a full-house affair. Sponsorships abound, with opportunities ranging from title sponsorship to hole sponsorships, each adding to the festive atmosphere. Local businesses contribute by providing food and drinks, making the day enjoyable and memorable for all participants.

CHAMBER BUSINESS AWARDS OF DISTINCTION GALA

In October, the GPRC will celebrate businesses in our region at the Chamber Business Awards of Distinction Gala.

Set to take place on October 16 at the Heritage Pavilion in Stony Plain, this event highlights excellence within the community and includes a presentation of 11 awards across various categories. The awards recognize achievements from Parkland, Spruce Grove, and Stony Plain, with both the chamber and local entities presenting accolades.

The awards night is not just a celebration but also a significant networking event, bringing together leaders and innovators from across the region. Last year's awards saw around 250 attendees, and this year's event aims to continue that success.

EXCLUSIVE OUR REGION, OUR VOICE EVENT!

In late October, the Chamber of Commerce holds a one-of-a-kind event designed to connect members with key decision-makers shaping our region's future. The Our Region, Our Voice event offers a unique opportunity to engage directly with local leaders in a dynamic, interactive setting.

Attendees participate in intimate, roundtable discussions with officials rotating among tables to ensure everyone has a chance to discuss the issues that matter most. This is members' chance to speak directly with the people shaping policies that impact their business and community.

Why attend? Members build connections, influence important regional conversations, and gain invaluable insights, all in one evening.

Notable attendees have included Chamber Chair Landis Vanthuynne, Mayors Allan Gamble, Jeff Acker, and William Choy, along with Lorraine Stewart from the Parkland School Division, and the Honourable Searle

Turton, Minister of Child and Family Services.

Don't miss this opportunity to make your voice heard!

The GPRC's big five events are designed not just as networking opportunities, but as pillars supporting the business community's growth and cohesion. Feedback from past events has been overwhelmingly positive, highlighting the chamber's commitment to delivering well-organized and valuable experiences. The success of these events underscores the importance of active community involvement and the role the GPRC plays in fostering business relationships.

Since the GPRC represents businesses in Spruce Grove, Parkland County, and Stony Plain, they try to spread out the events, so they aren't all held in the same regions.

"We try to move around," says Head. "Since we represent several regions, we have Stony Plain, we have Parkland County, we have Spruce Grove and even Acheson and Wabamun, there's lots of areas we [cover]."

As the GPRC continues to grow and evolve, its events remain central to connecting businesses, celebrating achievements, and enhancing community spirit. With a new team at the helm and innovative ideas on the horizon, the chamber is poised to further enrich the Parkland region's business landscape.

"I believe that the more activities we deliver here at the chamber will generate new business. People want to be involved and meet other businesses in the area and be able to bounce ideas and opportunities off one another," says Head. "A lot of members of the chamber do business with other chamber members so why go elsewhere when they have a resource right here, this generates more profits for our members."

Big changes for the GPRC

By Lisa Kopochinski

This past year has seen a great deal of change for the GPRC, which has all been for the better.

Some of these changes include a return to the principles of a chamber of commerce, such as working for members in helping them grow thriving businesses through networking, services, and advocacy.

“We had become too involved in social issues where there are people and groups with much more experience and knowledge that we could assist,” says Norman Leach, executive director of the GPRC.

BIG CHANGES

One of the biggest changes was a 100 per cent changeover in staff that includes professionals in the roles of office administrator, event planning, communications, membership sales, and accounting. The complete office structure system was revamped in order to find out what improvements were needed.

Also, there is now complete and diverse self-training on ChamberMaster—an integral member/vendor system widely used by most chambers of commerce—which allows for the utilization of available reports in order to capture accurate membership numbers, revenue numbers, event participation, and more.

“People wouldn’t expect that I can build a bridge or do heart surgery. Running a chamber takes a unique set of skills and experience. This is the chamber’s guarantee for the future,” stresses Leach. “We are far more accountable and impactful within the community.”

struggle with many of the same things I did when taking on a business world created for neuro-typicals. I'd like to see more events for casual fun networking, rather than structured formal meeting styles," she says. "Creating a safe and exciting space for the entrepreneurs who don't fit the mold and who think differently is a move that will only benefit the chamber and the community as a whole."

MEMBERSHIP DUES AND BENEFITS

In response to rising costs that have to be met, the chamber opted to raise dues by 56 per cent.

"Many believe we are a government agency, but we definitely are not. Like any small business, we faced rising costs that had to be met," says Leach. "The 56 per cent increase happened because we had not raised fees for a number of years and could not survive on that path."

There has also been a change to member benefits too. With 82 per cent of its members being small businesses and paying just $295 for an annual membership, members now receive $295 advertising through the chamber.

"This means your membership is essentially free. No business survives without providing real value – now we do," says Leach.

There has also been a complete revamp of the chamber website which is now seeing approximately 5,000 unique visits each month from visitors who are looking to connect with members.

"We have a new focus on events that are of benefit to members. This means no more time spent on events with low attendance and low member impact."

As for what the next one to three years holds for the chamber, Leach doesn't miss a beat.

"We are getting back to being a real chamber that is focused on our members and helping them to build thriving businesses."

has definitely noticed the changes the chamber has undergone over the past year.

"The things I have noticed is the chamber moving away from 'the old boys club' feeling that a lot of younger female entrepreneurs' experience when entering these established business communities," says Oosterhoff. "It is clear to me that efforts are being made to really support and encourage diversity and inclusivity. There are people on the board that fight for the voices that are afraid to speak up, and I've felt much more heard and valued as a member in 2024."

Oosterhoff says the changes in the culture of the chamber will greatly impact her business and other local businesses who participate. She would also like to see the chamber put into place some tools for neuro-diverse business owners like herself, specifically ADHD.

Who's who at the GPRC

By Paul Adair

In 2020, the GPRC emerged as a unifying force for the business communities of Stony Plain, Spruce Grove, and Wabamun District, succeeding the Tri Regional Action Collaboration (TRAC Task Force). At the heart of this thriving chamber are its long-serving members, whose dedication and commitment have shaped the local business landscape.

Here, we celebrate three of these esteemed members: Kiwi Nurseries, Laberge Engraving & Gifts, and Liquor on McLeod. Their stories exemplify the vital role that enduring membership plays in fostering community ties, supporting local initiatives, and driving economic growth. Together, they represent the strength and resilience of the GPRC and its commitment to nurturing a vibrant business ecosystem.

KIWI NURSERIES: GROWING IN SPRUCE GROVE

In 1976, Murray and Alison Munro moved from New Zealand to Alberta, and – working with a partner – Murray started up a small, local landscaping business. In 1983, Murray bought the partner out to start up Kiwi Landscaping, bringing larger-scale commercial landscaping services to the Spruce Grove area.

In 1990, the Munros purchased an 80-acre parcel of land to grow trees to supply their own landscaping projects. But, as word of the tree nursery spread, the demand for trees grew, eventually culminating in the creation of Kiwi Nurseries Ltd. in 2003.

“We started out growing trees in the gardens and the nursery for our own use for our landscape projects, and then people started coming in wanting to buy trees for themselves,” says Alison. “We basically have just continued to grow from that.”

Shifting its focus from landscaping, Kiwi Nurseries currently grows and supplies the most complete selection of high-quality prairie hardy trees, shrubs, and perennials in the region. The business takes pride in offering its clientele superior customer service and the confidence that whatever outdoor plants they purchase will grow and thrive in Alberta's sometimes challenging climate.

service – we take the time to address any concerns they might have and work to solve any issues,” says Alison. “We want our customers to keep coming back every year to add new trees to their yards. Our best advertising is customer referral, so we want them to tell others about how their shopping experience was a good one.”

Shifting its focus from landscaping, Kiwi Nurseries currently grows and supplies the most complete selection of high-quality prairie hardy trees, shrubs, and perennials in the region.

Kiwi Nurseries is always expanding its plant selection, garden accessories, and hard goods, in addition to providing services like tree moving, delivery, and planting. The nursery is also well known for hosting a variety of fun and informative events held throughout the year, such as its always popular Kiwi’s Haunted House, a 25-minute walk down a ‘haunted’ trail that is held every weekend in October in the lead up to Halloween.

Kiwi Nurseries today continues to be a family owned and operated enterprise, with both Munro daughters – Kathryn and Ashleigh – being part of the business in some capacity. During the height of the busy season, the nursery also hires a up to 25 additional employees – many of whom are students looking to save money for their education.

“Across Canada, we probably have one of the youngest staffs of any garden centre because we hire students,” says Alison. “When they work for us, they learn a lot about horticulture and – for some of them – this turns into a lifelong passion. If they go to university, we’ll keep them through their whole university career. We even have employees now who have come back to work for us after they got their degrees because they love it so much.”

Businesses like Laberge Engraving & Gifts are important to Spruce Grove, and the store strongly believes in supporting the community that has supported them for over 45 years.

MAKING MEMORIES WITH LABERGE ENGRAVING & GIFTS

The story of Laberge Engraving & Gifts begins more than 45 years ago with Cecile Laberge, who opened her engraving business out of her house in Spruce Grove as a way to make a little extra money. To this day, long-time customers fondly remember coming by the house to order trophies.

Now located in Grove Plaza, Laberge Engraving has changed a lot over the years, still having trophies and plaques, but now including a wide range of products and services that preserve memories and make events feel special. Laberge retired from the business in 2011, selling Laberge Engraving to a familiar face – her daughter, Pauline Chomyszyn.

"I was 11 years old when the business started, and I just loved helping out," says Chomyszyn. "I vividly remember sitting and watching TV shows next to mom and putting trophies together. So, when she announced that she was stepping down, it was a no-brainer for me that I was going to take it over and continue the store's legacy in Spruce Grove."

One turning point for the store was the purchase of a laser, which completely opened up the possibilities for what could be made. Laberge Engraving today has more than a thousand products in stock and is able to custom create whatever its customers can imagine.

"The things we have created over the years is astounding – and this was even before we had the laser," says Chomyszyn. "Mom even mounted an egg on a plaque one time and, when she did that, we knew we could produce pretty much anything you can think of. Our pieces have gone all over the world and to all kinds of people; even the Royal Family has things that have come from Laberge Engraving."

Businesses like Laberge Engraving & Gifts are important to Spruce Grove, and the store strongly believes in supporting the community that has supported them for over 45 years. For Chomyszyn, this means donating to local causes, as well as being active with the local chamber of commerce – a belief that she received from her mother.

"I'm not sure who came first, the chamber or Laberge Engraving – I just know that if you wanted to be successful back when we started, you were a member of the chamber," she says. "Now that I am running the business, I love the sense of community the chamber provides, the networking opportunities that you have, and the relationships you build. It's just incredible and I really believe in the chamber. But you only get out of it what you put into it. If you never go to any events or participate in the meetings, you'll never see all the benefits."

LIQUOR ON MCLEOD: SERVING THE COMMUNITY FOR 30 YEARS

Ted and Judy Saramaga took a chance on starting a new business and a new adventure. Partnering with another couple and taking out personal loans, they started up Liquor on McLeod at the corner of Main Street and McLeod Avenue in Spruce Grove on Grey Cup weekend 1993, the same year that liquor stores became privatized in Alberta.

And while the store may have moved to its new location to Century Crossing in 2008, the name and commitment to the community have remained the same.

"My parents have always been really involved in the community and were supporting anyone who gave back to the community – locals would just shop here, and continue to shop here, because of Ted and Judy," says Danielle Nelson, owner.

Daughter to Ted and Judy, Danielle and her husband Wilson purchased Liquor on McLeod in April 2023, keeping the business in the family.

"Liquor on McLeod has been in the family for more than 30 years and we want to carry on with what my mom and dad have built, and that means treating our staff well, giving back to the community, and supporting local whenever possible," says Danielle.

The business today employs 16 staff and has a full-time delivery driver to serve the licensing side of the business. Although he has officially 'retired' from the store, Ted also comes in to volunteer on delivery day and continues to help where he can.

"When we took over Liquor on McLeod, we kept all the same staff," says Danielle. "Some of these people have been with us for more than a decade, which is amazing for retail. We think of our employees as family, so we pay them well and they stick around, and our customers seem to appreciate the product knowledge we can provide."

Believing in the quality of Alberta-made products, the store proudly stocks its shelves with bottles from local distilleries, wineries, and craft breweries, and is constantly looking for ways to educate and serve its customers better.

"Every week we have a new product coming in and we are always trying to stay on top of what's coming up," says Wilson. "We are also bringing back our seated loft tastings that were paused over the pandemic. They are ticketed events where customers can sample wine or spirits, have a little food, and an informative/fun night with friends. It's things like that which make us different from a typical liquor store on the corner."

Liquor on McLeod has long been a member of the GRPC. Judy was a well-recognized figure at meetings, and, through the networking opportunities provided by the chamber, Ted was able to drum up licensee business with other local bars and restaurants.

"Mom and dad believed in the strength of the community and the benefits of like-minded businesses working together to support one another. Right now, we are still getting our feet under us running the business, but we plan to remain members and become more active in the chamber in the years ahead."

Uniting for growth

Meet three
partners

By Lisa Kopochinski

*Mayor of Spruce Grove,
Jeff Acker.*

*Mayor of Stony Plain,
William Choy.*

Mayor of Parkland County, Allan Gamble

The creation of the GPRC is the result of the merging of the Spruce Grove, Stony Plain, and Wabamun business communities and chambers into one.

Through this collaboration, the GPRC is encouraging positive growth in the tri-municipal region and elevating local businesses through professional development, community engagement, promotion, and member benefits.

We recently had the opportunity to sit down with the mayors of Spruce Grove, Stony Plain, and Parkland

County to explore the latest developments in the region and gain insight into the evolving business landscape. Here's what they shared about the strides being made in economic growth and community development.

Jeff Acker:
Mayor of Spruce Grove

After serving as a city councillor in Spruce Grove from 2019-2021, and prior to that as a city alderman from 2007-2013, Jeff Acker was elected as the mayor of Spruce Grove in the fall of 2021. Since that time, he says there have been many rewarding elements to his role.

"For me it's really about the opportunity to give back to the place that I have called home for my entire life," says Mayor Acker. "I feel extremely fortunate to not only serve my community, but also know that the decisions we make as council are going to have a positive impact on our residents, children, and grandchildren for years to come."

coming together of multiple local chambers to form one collaborative group. He says that before that, the City was a long-time member of the Spruce Grove Chamber.

"The benefits of being a member are many and include the cross-promotion of various programs and events, as well as the opportunity to sponsor the chamber's Business Awards of Distinction, the State of the Region event, and the chamber's golf tournament," says Mayor Acker. "Additionally, the chamber also provides both residents and visitors with Visitor Information Centre services."

For the past decade there has been strong and consistent economic growth in Spruce Grove with an annual building permit value that often exceeds $200 million.

He says that in 2023 they set a new development record with $277 million in total building permit values, and they consistently lead the Edmonton region in housing starts, second only to Edmonton.

"As a regional service and supply centre for a trade catchment area of approximately 170,000 people, our community enjoys balanced growth in both commercial and industrial investment, and we have both land and retail/office space inventory available in both sectors to attract and support future business."

With respect to business opportunities and projects, currently under construction is Heavy Metal Place—formerly referred to as the Civic Centre. When completed, this significant community amenity will provide various recreational and cultural opportunities to both residents and visitors.

"Our City Centre has recently gone through a $38 million investment to revitalize the space for current and future growth, and we've completed a dedicated high-load corridor along Jennifer Heil Way to accommodate

There are also several other major commercial private developments currently underway, including Creekside Commons on the west side of Spruce Grove bordering Highway 16A, and the Ball Park District on the east, also located on Highway 16A.

When asked about the economic goals for Spruce Grove for the next few years, Mayor Acker says its five-year Economic Development Strategy outlines the City's priorities and future direction for growing its economy.

"This includes growing our non-residential assessment to balance the substantial residential growth rates we've experienced in recent years and preparing a new program to support start-up and early-stage businesses," he says. "And we continue to collaborate regionally through Edmonton Global in identifying opportunities for attraction of major investment to the area."

William Choy: Mayor of Stony Plain

As mayor of Stony Plain since 2012, William Choy says what he enjoys most about his role is the opportunity to help build a community that is diverse, inclusive, and welcoming to all.

"Leading this community, fostering connections, and working toward a shared vision of growth and inclusivity is what truly motivates me every day," says Mayor Choy.

a member of the GPRC for approximately 30 years, dating back to when it was known as the Stony Plain & District Chamber.

"As a small business owner myself, I find it invaluable to hear about the challenges others face and how they've managed to overcome them. The chamber plays a vital role in representing the business community, offering services that enhance collaboration, partnerships, capacity building, and entrepreneurial support."

Thriving over the past few years, with intentional and steady growth, the town council has focused on repairing, replacing, and building infrastructure to support both residents and businesses. With a population nearing 20,000 and an average growth rate of 4.7 per cent annually, Mayor Choy says the area is seeing expansion in both residential and non-residential sectors.

"Business licences have grown and we're actively attracting key sectors such as agribusiness, manufacturing, logistics, professional services, and shopping, dining, and arts. The local labour force is strong, with nearly 15,000 skilled individuals contributing to the community," he says. "Our strategic location serves an immediate area of over 81,000 people, making Stony Plain a vital gateway for over 100,000 consumers across western Alberta."

Initiatives such as the updated Business Licence Bylaw have also been introduced, which includes a one-time licencing fee and the option for an intermunicipal licence with the City of Spruce Grove, further simplifying operations for local businesses.

He adds that collaboration has increased significantly, both within the business community and with regional partners in the Tri-Municipal Region and broader Edmonton Metropolitan Region, fostering a sense of unity and shared purpose.

Stony Plain is also experiencing significant growth in both its business parks that will enhance the region's goods and services. He says one of the most exciting projects is the town's involvement in the Government of Canada's Housing Accelerator Fund (HAF), through which it has secured a $5 million grant.

"This funding will accelerate key initiatives in our 2024-2026 Corporate Plan, including streamlining residential development, expanding infill policies, updating our Land Use Bylaw, and promoting affordable housing."

Construction is also underway for the English Bay Blending and Fine Chocolates Factory—a 120,000-square-foot facility set to open in 2026 in the North Business Park. Recent business additions like Wahoo Swimming, Parkland Early Learning Playschool Society, The Chopped Leaf, Golf Biz, and Future Ag are part of the dynamic business environment.

Mayor Choy and his team also have goals that include enhancing community facilities and infrastructure. A major priority is the construction and opening of Phase 1 of the Community Recreation Facility, which will feature community spaces, a walking and running track, a turf field, multi-purpose sport courts, pickleball courts, a six-sheet curling facility, and more.

"We're also planning to develop our first municipal non-denominational cemetery, with construction beginning in 2025 and expected to be operational by 2026. Additionally, the new Public Works Administration Building is under development, ensuring we meet our community's growing needs efficiently."

And if that's not enough, another key project is the Old Town South Redevelopment, which aims to transform the area into a vibrant hub for social, cultural, recreational, institutional, residential, and commercial activities.

Other top goals include implementing Stony Plain's Highway Development Strategy for the Highways 16A and 628 corridors, attracting new investment in key sectors along these routes.

"Advocacy for improved healthcare access at WestView Health Centre and increased infrastructure investment for our growing municipality are also top priorities," he adds. "We are aiming to create an environment where businesses and investments are welcomed, allowing entrepreneurs to thrive and contribute to Stony Plain's continued growth and prosperity."

Allan Gamble: Mayor of Parkland County

As mayor of Parkland County since October 2021, Allan Gamble says the highlight of his role so far are the people he has met, and the valuable connections made.

"Whether it be through businesses and community members, regional partners, county employees, or provincial colleagues, being able to work together alongside amazing individuals and organizations to build a better region is very special," says Mayor Gamble. "I have also enjoyed getting to witness and support positive growth and changes all throughout our community."

He says Parkland County is proud to have been a member of the GPRC since its inception.

"The chamber covers the Tri-Region, an area that is not just connected geographically, but also economically and socially. Having all three neighbouring municipalities connected and collaborating is key, as success in one area of our region benefits us all," says Mayor Gamble. "When our urban and rural communities partner together, we can utilize our unique differences and work to achieve common goals that matter to all our residents."

Over the past few years, this region has continued to experience growth, diversification, and development. The county has seen more than 3.5 million square feet of development in the past five years, which has led to the creation of thousands of new jobs to fuel the economy.

"New businesses we've welcomed in recent years include Amazon, Convoy Supply, Champion Petfoods, and Home Depot," Gamble says. "These businesses are rooted in Acheson— the beating, industrial heart of our county and one of the largest industrial areas in western Canada."

The rate of development has continued to increase with the county's focus on strategic economic diversification and growth. Industry sector representation from growing sectors such as manufacturing, energy, value-added agriculture, technology and transportation, distribution and logistics, and tourism have been diversifying rapidly.

"This diversification, combined with the resilience and vision of our businesses, have led to our community's ability to keep growing despite economic challenges," he adds. "We're immensely proud of the small business growth throughout our county, including impressive

"Being able to work together alongside amazing individuals and organizations to build a better region is very special."

spots such as the award-winning Anohka Distillery."

Gamble says Parkland County is also thrilled to have recently received an investment of $29.9 million from Prairies Economic Development Canada to support key infrastructure projects in Acheson and Wabamun.

He adds that $17.5 million will be invested into upgrading Wabamun's wastewater systems to alleviate capacity pressures and to revitalize the Waterfront Park with the installation of a new water feature, expanded beach and recreation areas to provide residents with improved facilities while boosting tourism.

In addition, $12.4 million will go towards upgrading intersections on Highway 16A in Acheson. Improvements made to these intersections will open accessibility to approximately 2,600 acres of land for industrial use, paving the way for new business growth and development opportunities.

"We are already seeing large amounts of land development occurring in Acheson," he says. "Last year, Panattoni Development purchased a significant parcel of industrial development land and announced the creation of the Westlink Business Park."

Parkland County also launched Explore Parkland, a website and campaign aimed at highlighting and supporting tourism throughout the county. Other ongoing projects include the Land Use Bylaw ReDesign and Municipal Development Plan Project, which are both moving ahead to support future development in the county.

As for plans for Parkland County over the next few years, Gamble says the focus is on ensuring that infrastructure meets the needs of the growing community and the residents and businesses within it.

"We also aim to develop a policy framework that ensures the protection of environmentally significant areas," he says. "From an economic perspective, the goal is to support the continuation and evolution of traditional economic activities while pursuing new opportunities for diversified and sustainable growth."
